

Save the Date: September 15, 2011, 6 - 9 p.m.

You are invited to attend
a film screening and community dialogue

Reimagining the Region: Building a New Detroit Metropolis

How can the city of Detroit and its suburban communities work together to create a vibrant and equitable region for the future?

Join public officials, policymakers, business, faith and community leaders, and filmmaker Andrea Torrice for a film screening of The New Metropolis followed by community dialogue.

Thursday, September 15
6 – 9 p.m.

at the Emagine Royal Oak Theatre
200 N. Main Street, Royal Oak, Michigan

Hosted by Stephen Henderson
Host of American Black Journal and Editorial page editor of the Detroit Free Press

Featured panelists include Rev. John Hice, Senior Pastor at First United Methodist Church in Royal Oak, Dr. Karen Majewski, Mayor of Hamtramck, Melanie Piana, Ferndale City Councilwoman, Dr. John Powell, Executive Director of the Kirwan Institute, and State Representative Jim Townsend. Filmmaker Andrea Torrice will open the discussion with clips from the documentary film The New Metropolis, which will be airing on DPTV in Detroit.

Light dinner provided; the event is free and open to the public. Register online at: www.thenewmetropolis.com

This event will be streamed live on the DPTV website. Go to www.thenewmetropolis.com to learn more.

Event Sponsors: Metropolitan Organizing Strategy Enabling Strength (MOSES), Michigan Suburbs Alliance, Michigan Department of Civil Rights, Michigan Roundtable for Diversity and Inclusion, Detroit Public TV, Model D Media, Torrice Productions, and Working Films.

This forum is part of The New Metropolis national civic engagement dialogue series on revitalizing America's older communities. It is made possible through the generous support of the Ford and Surdna foundations.

Learn more, register for event, or watch online at: www.thenewmetropolis.com